Strengthened organization gave wind into sails of School to Works 2017

by Gunnar Anderzon, Leader of the Flagship School to Work, Swedish Association of Local Authorities and Regions

The Flagship Project School to Work aims at strengthening transnational cooperation between stakeholders in the Baltic Sea Region in education and work to prevent early schooling and developing support for vulnerable groups of students / young people, especially NEETs, early school leavers and newly arrived refugees.

And of course, we have contributed to this during the past year. We are now 60 members, eight new in this year. We have a renewed and improved organization led by strong strategic stakeholders. We have conducted seven study visits and conferences, a number of work meetings, face-to-face meetings and met with young people in various activities and projects around the Baltic Sea.

However, we have some challenges. We need to find ways to finance transnational activities in a new and coordinated manner. Not only to strengthen the work of development and knowledge fulfilment but also to create a more sustainable development to continue to address social challenges like early school leaving, youth unemployment, and integration of newly arrived refugees.

We believe that this is important not only for the macro-region but also for cohesion everywhere in the EU. To quote an HR- guru, Peter F. Drucker "If you think training is expensive, try ignorance". Let's continue to train together.

We are looking forward to seeing new members next year and hoping for an equally rewarding 2018!

Why Addressing Early School Leaving Matters?

by Anu Parantainen, Knowledge Platform on Prevention of Early School Leaving, Project Management Office at Education Division in City of Turku

Education is one of the most effective means to prevent the social exclusion of the young, and decreasing the number of early school leavers and drop-outs would generate enormous savings. According to the European Commission, the economic loss to Europe due to the disengagement of young people from the labour market is approximately 153 billion euros per. It's hard to understand how much money that really is, but let's make it easier: it's more than three times Apple Inc. profit per year.

When talking about early school leaving, in European level or even on national level, money is an important indicator, but most important it's to see it on individual level.

We don't have to always think about the biggest catastrophes when talking about young people being outsiders of the society. Just think about the life of a young person. Youngster who not enter further studies and that way are most likely to drop out from working life, are the ones who lose most. They don't have possibilities to make their dreams to be true and to be part of something. Quite often the education and work are the paths to these possibilities.

Many good things have already been developed and it's no point to invent a bicycle again. Knowledge platform of Early School Leavers offers opportunities to share your own best practices. Tell others your good experience. Or share your ideas, find new partners and start new cooperation. One plus one can be more than two.

One of such occasions was a study visit to Turku in November. Study visit offered to learn more about one-stop guidance centres (Ohjaamo Turku and Vamos) for young people, as well as presented various ongoing initiatives for newly arrived refugees. Vocational education was another subject that was addressed. Vocational Education Institute in Turku has a special approach how to teach and empower students with entrepreneurship skills. The program offers intensive entrepreneurship camps for students from every study program of the Institute. Participants of the study visit were from Belgium, Denmark, Estonia, Germany, Lithuania and Sweden.

More activities will come in 2018. Knowledge platform has planned to have a workshop already in February to look into successful methods on how to make vocational education more attractive. Additionally, there is going to be a study visit to Lithuania or Sweden that would have a focus to prevention of early school leaving.

We offer you to look into successful methods that you can try in your own town. Let's keep in touch!

Support for Development

by Matti Mäkelä, Knowledge Platform on Newly Arrived Refugees, Head of the Project Management Office at Education Division in City of Turku

One goal of the Knowledge Platforms and Flagship cooperation in general is to provide useful knowledge and data (surveys, policy recommendations) and development tools to Flagship members and partners.

Surveys and policy recommendations section offers information about different reports, studies and research projects provided by different actors such as municipalities, research units and networks.

Development tools section responds, for example, to a way too familiar challenge in transnational cooperation: "they had some good ideas, but we can't utilise them in our country because our operating environment is too different". This is done by providing new means and tools for the identification and transfer of innovations. Another aim of this section is to bring together the key information about the prerequisites for successful peer development as well as the different challenges and pitfalls you may encounter during the process.

The tools and operating models presented are suitable for use in both national and transnational cooperation.

And – like they say in TV Shop commercials – that's not everything. Via Flagship web-page (www.s2wflagship.eu) you can find new good practices to support your development work, participate study visits and seminars, and, moreover, find partners for your brand new project ideas and innovations.

Stay tuned!

Thematic Working Groups: Core of the Knowledge Platform

by Anastasiia Klonova, Knowledge Platform Integrate NEETs, Norden Association in Sweden

Thematic Working Groups are going to be testing grounds for new ideas and methods. They will also capture and validate innovations and best practices in the Knowledge Platform Integrate NEETs.

We aim to identify, validate and further develop methods and tools that can be tested and adopted in new projects among partners in the Baltic Sea Region. We also foresee that groups will prepare inputs that could be proposed for improvement in respective systems (e.g. education, social affairs, labour market) at local, regional, national and macro-regional level.

labour integration of young people in NEET situation.

The thematic working groups will involve stakeholders from public and private sectors, civil society and academia from eight countries around Baltic Sea Region. The geographical coverage for the Knowledge Platform is Denmark, Estonia, Finland, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Sweden and the four northern states in Germany namely Brandenburg, Schleswig-Holstein, Mecklenburg-Vorpommern and Hamburg.

Knowledge Platform Integrate NEETs (young people neither in employment nor in education or training) is coordinated by the Norden Association in Sweden. The platform aims to:

- bring together specialists who work in various institutions and organizations, and open perspective of transnational cooperation which is beyond the experience available within national systems,
- evaluate existing initiatives, their further development and test them in new projects, initiated by thematic working groups,
- share good practices among stakeholders in the region, and bring them together with organisations that work with integration of young people in NEET situation.

Funding for Development

by Inta Edgarsson, Coordinator of the Flagship, Swedish Association of Local Authorities and Regions

Funding is one of the core elements to start and run a cooperation between countries. Flagship defines cooperation in terms of looking into methods that are best practices in the field and looking into ways how to transfer know-how to one's own institution or organisation from another country.

There are some funding programmes that provide financial means for multilateral cooperation in the Baltic Sea Region in fields of education, labour market and empowerment of young people who risk becoming marginalized.

Therefore, we gladly give you a short overview of funding programs that:

- support transnational cooperation,
- invests in well-being of young people who are at risk of early school leaving, find themselves in a NEET situation,
- support integration of newly arrived refugees,
- provide funding for competence building of specialists who work with socially vulnerable young people and young people who are in school to work transition.

EUROPEAN SOCIAL FUND has a special Co-ordinated call for projects in themes like employment, youth employment, inclusion, social economy, learning and skills, migrants in spring 2018. It is said that Finland, Poland and Sweden will launch calls for projects in January 2018. More information is available at your regional or national ESF managing authority.

A Strategic Partnership is transnational and involves minimum three organisations from three different Programme Countries. There is no maximum number of participating organisations.

NORDPLUS is a program that supports increased quality and cooperation within the field of education of the Nordic-Baltic region.

The deadline for applications to the round of 2018 is 1st February and the total amount of available funds is 9.3 million euro.
